GEORGIA GARVEY

More than celebs lose in meltdowns

After reporting on a recent Northwestern University study that showed women usually have more “love” regrets and men more “work” ones, it struck me how often the opposite might be true, particularly for our nation’s two unofficial mascots of regret, Lindsay Lohan and Charlie Sheen.

It’s really Lohan’s career (and not her relationships) that seems to be most in need of first aid. And despite what Sheen might think, it’s his family life—and not his employment status—that’s truly depressing.

Sheen may have turned the tide on his near-disaster of a tour, but things were looking grim for a while. He’d been canned from cash cow “Two and a Half Men” and every interview he gave made him appear less professionally reliable.

But his personal life is more pathetic. His history with women is disturbing; from the 1990 shooting of his then-fiancee Kelly Preston to the accusations he assaulted his soon-to-be-ex Brooke Mueller. He recently called ex-wife Denise Richards (who also has accused Sheen of violence) a “whore” on Twitter.

All this has taken place as he allegedly tries to raise children, kids who’ll grow up and learn that their dad once led a crowd of Clevelanders in a “[bleep] that [bleep]” chant about their mom.

Sheen apologized for calling Jon Cryer a “troll,” but it’s not Charlie’s co-stars I pity. It’s the stable of damaged women and kids he’s left in his wake. I find the “tiger blood” comments a little less hilarious when I consider them.

But it’s different for Lohan. Her journey from adorable Disney star to walking anti-drug pamphlet has been pretty well documented.

After her career as a child actress ramped up, so did the controversies. Lohan’s been involved in enough car crashes, DUI arrests and rehab stints for someone twice her age. But she’s also an unquestionably talented actress. I’m sure I’m not the only one who can’t turn off “Mean Girls” whenever it’s on cable. And you know what actress played the Lohan part in the original “Freaky Friday”? Jodie. Freaking. Foster.

Lohan’s romantic entanglements haven’t been uncomplicated, and she’s now facing theft charges that could send her to jail.

But it’s to her career that she’s doing a real injustice. For someone who could be at the top of her game, struggling to get a role as a villain in the next Superman movie seems—well, beneath her. Plus, unlike Sheen, there are no innocent kids depending on her to stay out of the clubs.

Frankly, it’d be nice if both Lohan and Sheen could clean up their respective acts. Ultimately, they’d be bringing both their careers and their relationships back from the brink of disaster.

And THAT would be real #winning.

Shut it down

It's the end of the line for lots of stuff this week in Chicago

With all the hubbub over the looming government shutdown in Washington this week, you might not have noticed the surprising number of things being shut down right here in Chicago. Here comes RedEye to the rescue with these Debbie Downer developments and more.

Dark day for 'Dark Knight'

The Caped Crusader is headed to Pittsburgh. On Tuesday, producer and director Christopher Nolan confirmed what many in the local film industry had suspected during the past few months: that the next installment in his Batman franchise, "The Dark Knight Rises," will not return to Chicago to shoot, the Tribune reported.

It is a blow for the city, but "based on the information we were getting from Warner Bros. through back channels, this doesn't come as an entire surprise," said Richard Moskal, director of the Chicago Film Office. "They would have given us an indication by this point if they were coming. We're certainly disappointed, but also so appreciative of everything Chris brought us in terms of the two previous Batman pictures."

Sad sort of sports

First, the Cubs played the Diamondbacks on Monday in front of the smallest crowd Wrigley Field has seen in nine years. Then they lost two starting pitchers—Randy Wells and Andrew Cashner—to injuries Wednesday. Then the Sox home opener Thursday unfolded in the midst of a freezing, foggy and foreboding weather pattern. Meanwhile, the Blackhawks are hanging in there for a spot in the playoffs, but they need this weekend's series to play in their favor. At least it's looking like the Bulls' No. 1 playoff seed is a lock, right?

Stone walled

When the dust settled after the city's runoff elections Tuesday, the City Council had a new face. Its second-longest-serving alderman, Bernard Stone (50th), was out. And more than a third of the council's members are new. How the rebooted governing body will play with incoming Mayor Rahm Emanuel is anybody's guess.

LOCATION,
LOCATION,
LOCATION!

For those looking to move now that the ice has thawed, the Chicago renting market presents a mixed bag.

The housing market's nascent recovery has barely persuaded qualified homebuyers to jump in with both feet—and many buyers with foreclosures and short sales on their record couldn't buy even if they wanted to, and have since joined the rental market.

"In some areas, it is kind of difficult to find an inexpensive place to rent," said B.J. Tregoning, a Chicago real estate agent who also handles rentals.

Locations close to downtown and jobs are more expensive and come with less space, he said. The median rent for a two-bedroom apartment on the Gold Coast is $2,300, Tregoning said, citing MLS real estate stats. The median for two bedrooms in the South Loop is $1,900, but Tregoning says the spaces are newer and bigger.

"I think that you can probably get more for your money in the South Loop—definitely size and condition [a lot are new buildings]," he said.

Farther from downtown, Tregoning cites Avondale, particularly the east side, and Mayfair as great values with good access to the Blue Line and Kennedy Expressway. The median rent for two bedrooms in Avondale is $1,100, and Mayfair is $995, according to MLS.

Contracts for everything from housekeeping to loud sex can keep you from living in roommate hell

By Eric Johnson

FOR REDEYE

When Melissa Andress moved into her first apartment last year, she and her roommates discussed how to keep the technicalities of their merger simple:

They would split the rent and utilities on the Gold Coast apartment, take turns buying household necessities, and do their best to keep the place tidy, Andress said. They didn't need a formal contract.

But Andress didn't expect that her roommate at the time would rapidly develop a taste for seedy entrepreneurship, posting a detailed business plan for a pornographic website on a large whiteboard in the middle of the living room.

"It laid out who would do the website and who would do the filming and how much money she thought the site could rake in," Andress, 24, said.

Andress' mother, who arrived that day from Cincinnati to visit her daughter and greet her new roommates, was greeted by much more: naked photos, lurid drawings and the roommate's name circled at the top as CEO.

Awkward.

Living together isn't always easy, whether you're friends, lovers or complete strangers. Enter the roommate prenup—contracts that specify each roommate's responsibilities. On the table: paying rent and utilities, alcohol and tobacco use, pet policies, cleanup—anything really, according to real estate company Move Inc.

"I wish we had a contract that mandated keeping all quirky business plans in personal quarters," Andress said, laughing.

That's why people moving in together, regardless of how well they know each other, need to leave emotions aside, said California-based attorney Janet Portman, co-author of "Every Tenant's Legal Guide."

"But people don't do it, because they are naive," Portman said, acknowledging the "hard-hearted" emotional issues involved with prenuptial-type agreements. "They think, 'We are all pals, all cool,' and don't understand that their roommate's screwup will be laid at their feet."

Portman is among experts who recommend putting it all in writing.

"There is no way to get a landlord or a judge to enforce who is taking out the garbage, but if your roommate is supposed to pay half of the rent and fails to do so, a judge can rule on that," Portman said.

Melissa Andress sees the upside to having a contract with roommates after a weird situation with one of hers. MIKE RICH/REDEYE

If you have a close relationship with your roommates, you may be able to draw up an informal contract, Move spokeswoman Julie Reynolds said. Roommates could sit down and draft conditions together and then sign and date the document, she says.

If a more formal arrangement is in order, Reynolds suggests having a lawyer handle it. There are also websites, such as lawdepot.com, that offer do-it-yourself roommate contracts. Reynolds advises having the documents notarized.

But how to broach the subject of a contract in the first place?

"Just like a prenuptial agreement can be a touchy subject before marriage, sometimes people get their feelings hurt by the suggestion of a roommate agreement," Reynolds said. "It's important to explain that this is simply being used for the purpose of ensuring no conflict arises over living together."

Portman agrees: "They should say, 'You and I are entering into a business relationship and putting a tremendous amount of money in a deposit and the landlord does not know or care where it came from.'"

Brandon Moore, 25, of Lakeview, has never written a contract for any of the three apartments he's lived in.

"With all three of my past roommates, there was a conversation prior to move-in that we would take turns buying certain things," Moore said. The roommates shared the bills and made up any difference when they paid the rent.

"For the most part, this has worked rather smoothly for me," Moore said.

Not so for Andress, who has since moved into another apartment, in Lincoln Park, with four roommates she met on Craigslist and opted, for the time being, for a contract-free life.

"Yes, in some cases, it would be great to have in writing," she said. But so far she hasn't had to ask her roommate formally to take it easy on the loud sex.

"He's a pretty open, honest person anyway," Andress said. "I could just say, 'Dude, I have to get some sleep and if you are going to have sex every night, can you please go to the girl's place?'"

NEVERWHERE ON STAGE: LIFELINE THEATRE

The Chicago Public Library welcomes Chicago's Lifeline Theatre for a full reading of the play Neverwhere (adapted for the stage by Robert Kauzlaric), which was lauded by critics, fans and Neil Gaiman himself last spring when Lifeline brought this literary adaptation to their stage. The free program takes place on Monday, April 11 at 6:00 p.m., in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium (Lower Level) at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. The reading will be followed by a discussion featuring Kauzlaric and his fellow actors; director Paul S. Holmquist; and Lifeline Artistic Director Dorothy Milne. This program is presented as a Spring 2011 One Book, One Chicago event. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

NEIL GAIMAN & AUDREY NIFFENEGGER

The Chicago Public Library welcomes Neverwhere author Neil Gaiman, who will be joined by visual artist and writer Audrey Niffenegger (Her Fearful Symmetry, The Time Traveler's Wife), for a stimulating conversation about imagination and creativity. The free program takes place on Tuesday, April 12 at 6:00 p.m., in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium (Lower Level) at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. This program is presented as a Spring 2011 One Book, One Chicago event. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

NEIL GAIMAN

Join us to hear from Neil Gaiman @neilhimsself, as his over 1.5 million Twitter followers know him-about writing, life, art and what became of Richard Mayhew. The free program takes place on Wednesday, April 13 at 7:00 p.m., at Rockefeller Memorial Chapel, 5850 S. Woodlawn Ave., on the campus of the University of Chicago. Presented in partnership with the University of Chicago's Rockefeller Memorial Chapel, this program is a Spring 2011 One Book, One Chicago event. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

GOV. DEVAL PATRICK

Deval Patrick, the sitting Governor of Massachusetts and a Chicago native, discusses and signs his memoir, A Reason to Believe: Lessons from an Improbable Life at the Chicago Public Library. The free program takes place on Tuesday, April 19 at 6:00 p.m., in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium (Lower Level) at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. In January 2007, Deval Patrick became the first black governor of the state of Massachusetts. But that was just one triumphant step in a long, improbable journey that began on the South Side of Chicago. From a chaotic childhood to an elite boarding school, from relief work in Africa to the boardrooms of Fortune 500 companies, and then to a career in politics, Gov. Patrick has led an extraordinary life. In this inspirational book, he pays tribute to family, friends, and strangers who, through words and deeds, have instilled in him transcendent lessons. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

Good friends, good books and a sleepy conscience: this is the ideal life

LAWRENCE KRAUSS

The Chicago Public Library welcomes Lawrence Krauss, the author of Quantum Man: Richard Feynman's Life in Science and The Physics of Star Trek for an exploration of where fiction meets physics. The free program takes place on Wednesday, April 20 at 6:00 p.m., in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium (Lower Level) at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. An acclaimed lecturer, respected cosmologist and theoretical physicist, Krauss uses Neil Gaiman's book Neverwhere as a starting point for an entertaining lecture on how scientists are exploring the possibility of parallel universes. Presented in partnership with the Illinois Science Council, this program is featured as a Spring 2011 One Book, One Chicago event. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

PAUL APOSTOLIDIS

The Chicago Public Library welcomes noted author and scholar Paul Apostolidis to discuss and sign his new book, Breaks in the Chain: What Immigrant Workers Can Teach America about Democracy. The free program takes place on Monday, April 18 at 6:00 p.m., in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium (Lower Level) at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. Linking stories of immigration to stories about working on the meat production line, Apostolidis reveals the surprising power of activism by immigrant workers and their allies and demonstrates how it can promote social and political democracy in America. Cosponsored by The Common Review, Interfaith Worker Justice and Arise Chicago. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

If we encounter a man of rare intellect, we should ask him what books he reads.

SISTER SOULJAH

The Chicago Public Library welcomes Sister Souljah, political activist, educator and the bestselling author of The Coldest Winter Ever and Midnight, who will discuss and sign her latest novel, Midnight and the Meaning of Love. The free program takes place on Thursday, April 21 at 6:00 p.m., in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium (Lower Level) at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. In this book Sister Souljah delivers her most compelling and enlightening story yet with an adventure about young, deep love, the ways in which people across the world express their love, and the lengths that they will go to have it. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

"Upstairs Downstairs" slaps a fresh coat of paint on 165 Eaton Place with a lovely sequel 34 years after the British series about the goings-on in that London townhouse ended.

The classic series took the world by storm in the 1970s, earning Emmy awards and legions of devoted fans hanging on the lives of the Bellamy family and its domestic staff "downstairs." It mixed social and political satire with soapy melodrama.

This well-acted, charming renovation mimics the original's spirit but doesn't quite capture its rhythm. With just three 45-minute episodes, it feels rushed.

Set in 1936, the sequel picks up six years after the original ended. Diplomat Sir Hallam Holland (Ed Stoppard) and his wife, Agnes (Keeley Hawes), move into the run-down townhouse. But they won't be living alone. Hallam's busybody mom, Maud (Eileen Atkins), arrives from India with her secretary, Mr. Amanjit (Art Malik). Lady Agnes' flighty sister, Lady Persie (Claire Foy), also moves in.

Agnes retains Rose Buck (Jean Marsh, reprising her role from the original series), the Bellamys' former parlor maid who now runs an employment agency, to hire a domestic staff. Rose then signs on as the housekeeper.

All these changes at 165 Eaton Place are set against what's happening outside its doors: the abdication of King Edward VIII, the plight of Jews in Nazi Germany and the looming possibility of war. Some the script handles elegantly; others, again, feel hurried.

It doesn't help that one of those sub-plots involving Lady Persie, Harry and the rise of the Fascist Party in Britain seems to have been plucked straight from the marvelous

"Downton Abbey," another up/down drama that recently aired on "Masterpiece Theater."

But "Upstairs Downstairs" does have Atkins and Marsh, co-creators of the original production and this new one.

"We have experience, you and I," Maud says to Rose late in the series. "We are what that home requires."

Adkins and Marsh shine like Rose's silver teapot, a treasured memento of her first time living at 165 Eaton Place. I imagine these two veteran actresses will make fans of the original series treasure the new "Upstairs Downstairs" as well.

Taxi Driver 35th Anniversary Edition

Available now

Deftly directed by Martin Scorsese, "Taxi Driver" explores the mental anguish of Travis Bickle (Robert De Niro), a traumatized Vietnam War veteran who tries to find companionship with Betsy (Cybil Shepherd) but fails. He picks up a 12-year-old prostitute named Iris (played by then-13-year-old Jodie Foster) in his taxi and decides to save her from such a life by rescuing her from a pimp (Harvey Keitel). De Niro is outstanding in a performance, and a film, you won't soon forget. DOUG NYE, MCT

Doggumentary

Snoop Dogg

Will anyone else release an album this year that features Willie Nelson, E-40, Gorillaz and forgotten Cali rapper Kokane? Unlikely—and it certainly won't match what Snoop Dogg does on "Doggumentary." Snoop relies on familiar, feel-good melodies to remind us he's still here, producing his bounciest, breeziest material ever. There's space-age reggae in "Sumthin' Like This Night," a collaboration with Gorillaz and a taste of mortality on "Eyez Closed." The dog is showing his gray, but he still has a few tricks left. MICHAEL POLLOCK, THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER

Blood Pressures

The Kills

Between Alison Mosshart's stint with Jack White in The Dead Weather and her longtime musical partner Jamie Hince's engagement to Kate Moss, indie rockers The Kills certainly have been busy in the three years since the minimalist "Midnight Boom." On "Blood Pressures," The Kills are far more eclectic—from the dub-fueled "Satellite" to the guitar buzz of "Nail in My Coffin" to the percussion-free, old-fashioned waltz "The Last Goodbye." The experimentation has done them good, breathing new life into their sound. GLENN GAMBOA, NEWSDAY

Pro Evolution Soccer 2011 3D

Available now for Nintendo 3DS

If you want a game to show off the 3DS to your sports-loving friends, "Pro Evolution Soccer 2011" is the one to get. The game looks near-console quality and the 3-D effects are spectacular, especially when you stick to a default camera mode that features an up-close-and-personal view of the action. "PES'11's" only big downside? It lacks in-depth features and extras we're used to seeing on its console brethren. RYAN SMITH FOR REDEYE

Tron: Legacy

Available now

The long-awaited sequel to the visually stunning 1982 "Tron" would be a great film if the words didn't keep getting in the way. Driven by the cinematic wizardry of today, the film is a feast for the eyes, from flashy light cycle races to physics-defying disc battles. This return to life on the computer grid is so visually electrifying, one viewing is not enough to appreciate the full splendor. Sadly, a second viewing would mean again trying to wade through the muddled story.

Taste test: Doughnut Vault

By Metromix staff

It's safe to say that here at Metromix, we've been pretty eager for Doughnut Vault (401½ N. Franklin St.) to open. So as soon as we saw on Twitter that it was open for business Tuesday, we didn't waste any time gathering our staff for a taste test.

GLAZED DOUGHNUTS ($3)

Glazed doughnuts are available in three flavors: chocolate, vanilla and chestnut. Here's what we thought:

Chocolate

"It almost has a cupcake quality to it, with the fudge-like frosting overpowering the rest of the doughnut, but not necessarily in a bad way. Super sweet. Probably couldn't eat a whole one."

"My money is on the chocolate, which comes with not only original glaze, but chocolate frosting and sprinkles."

Vanilla

"Tastes like original Krispy Kreme's slightly older, more sophisticated cousin."

"Has a sugary taste but no vanilla taste. The doughnut itself is fluffy and light and tastes fresh."

Chestnut

"Would pair nicely with a coffee as it has a coffee-flavored taste mixed with brown sugar."

"I don't know if it really tastes chestnutty at all. It might just be the power of suggestion."

GINGERBREAD STACK DOUGHNUT ($3)

"The gingerbread one tasted like any standard brown-sugar doughnut to me."

"Gingerbread was my favorite, soft but firm texture almost like a cookie. Moist, not dry like cake doughnuts can be."

"This one has the best doughnut texture, and the gingerbread taste is there but not overpowering. This is the winner."

BUTTERMILK OLD-FASHIONED DOUGHNUT ($2)

"Love the smooth, cakey inside and the crispy, weet glazed outside."

"Really, really love the crunchiness of the buttermilk one!"

Doughnut Vault

OVERALL THOUGHTS

"These are a step up from the Dunkin' Donuts/grocery store doughnuts of the world, but I'm not sure they quite earn the designation of 'gourmet.'"

"Spring for at least one of the jumbo-sized glazed. As far as doughnuts go, they may not be anything to write home about, but at least with the glaze, you're getting a decent sugar kick along with some dense, doughy goodness"

"All of them leave an embarrassing amount of crumbs, though I guess that comes with it so everybody knows how guilty you are."

Rainn Wilson takes back the streets

No longer will diner cook Frank (Rainn Wilson) keep quiet as life craps all over him. With help from a homemade costume and, more important, a wrench, he becomes self-made superhero the Crimson Bolt. His goals: stop crime and bring back his wife (Liv Tyler), who's taken up with a sleazy, definitely-not-French character named Jacques (Kevin Bacon).

The buzz: Yes, the notion of a dweeb who decides to become a superhero is very reminiscent of last year's "Kick-Ass." Yet plenty of classic superheroes don't have any real powers (Batman, for one), so there's room for another DIY avenger and writer-director James Gunn's ("Slither") indie comedy, which, for a while, takes less-cartoony aim at real-life superheroes than "Kick-Ass" did.

The verdict: The lively "Super" nearly lives up to its title. But, like a wrench to the face, Frank's savage beating of two people whose biggest crime is cutting in a movie line throws "Super" off what was a funny course of personal redemption and vigilante justice with the catchphrase "Shut up, crime!" Obviously, this a very black, sometimes "Taxi Driver"-esque comedy. Ultimately Frank, a deeply wounded man who's been beaten down his entire life, believes in punishing anyone who thrives off others' suffering. While that clashes with the film's frequently absurdist tone (the Crimson Bolt posts signs around town instructing "Don't molest kids!"), it demonstrates how vigilantism creates moral booby traps along with its heroism. Plus: The movie's mostly a good bit of fun, as Wilson's both heartbreaking and a crackup as he's cracking skulls.

Super

SCORCHING HOT

Bulls

The NBA playoffs will be here soon, and MVP candidate Derrick Rose and the Bulls have the inside track on the top seed in the East. Chicago hasn't been this excited about basketball since a guy named Jordan wore the red and black.

SIMMERING

Blackhawks

The Blackhawks play on ice, but hockey still is hot. The 2010-11 edition is a far cry from last season's Stanley Cup-winning juggernaut, but many hope Jonathan Toews, Patrick Kane and Co. can cling to a playoff spot and regain their magic in time for an extended playoff run.

WARMING UP

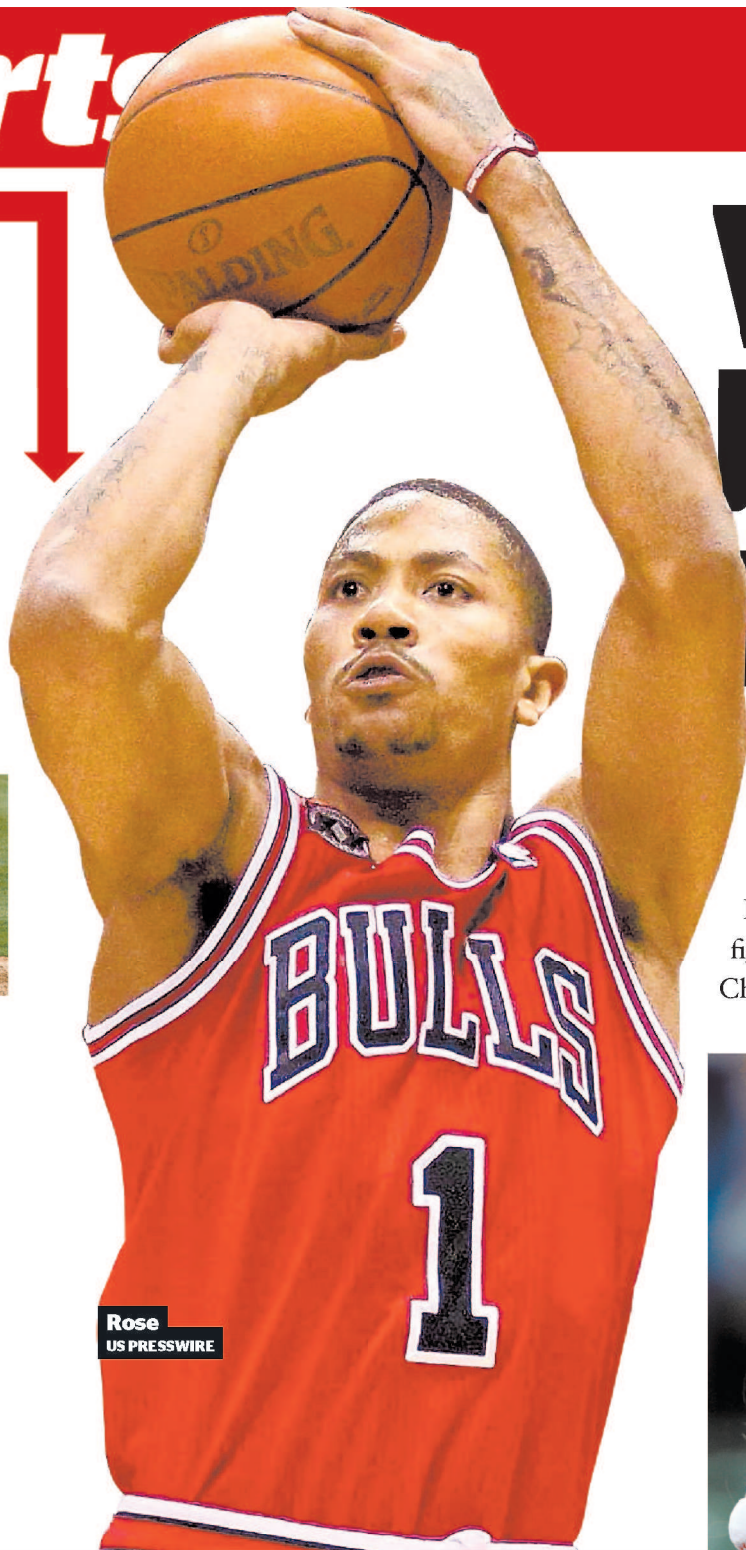

White Sox

The Sox are loaded with talent and are favored to win the American League Central. The South Siders traditionally play second fiddle to the Cubs in Chi-town, but there are hints that hearts are beginning to thaw for Ozzie Guillen's club.

MEH

Rush

Chicago's Arena Football League team rushed out to a 3-0 start before losing to Cleveland last weekend. The jury's still out on whether the Rush are for real.

Who's bringing the heat?

Chicago teams are begging for attention this time of year

By Ryan Smith FOR REDEYE

Now that spring is here—finally—and the mercury slowly rises, RedEye figured it was time to play meteorologist and take the temperature of Chicago's sports landscape. RYAN SMITH IS A REDEYE SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

COOLING

Cubs

Sadly, Ron Santo is gone. Lou Piniella threw his final tantrum as skipper more than six months ago and the Cubs are in a quasi-rebuilding stage. Fans' apathy showed up already last weekend as attendance for a game was recorded below 27,000 at Wrigley Field for the first time since 2002.

DEEP FREEZE

Bears

To be fair, it is football's offseason. But the NFL lockout combined with Jay Cutler's injury and the Bears' disappointing loss to Green Bay means Bears fans have reason to be grumpy right now.

TOPIC

What will happen if MVP candidates Derrick Rose and Dwight Howard meet in the playoffs?

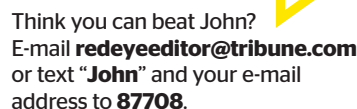

Superman vs. Pooh, who will be dishing out Heffalumps.

It'll be like that time Hulk Hogan and Andre the Giant met at Wrestlemania, but with less spandex.

The universe will collapse on itself, creating an event horizon from which none can escape. And Bulls win.

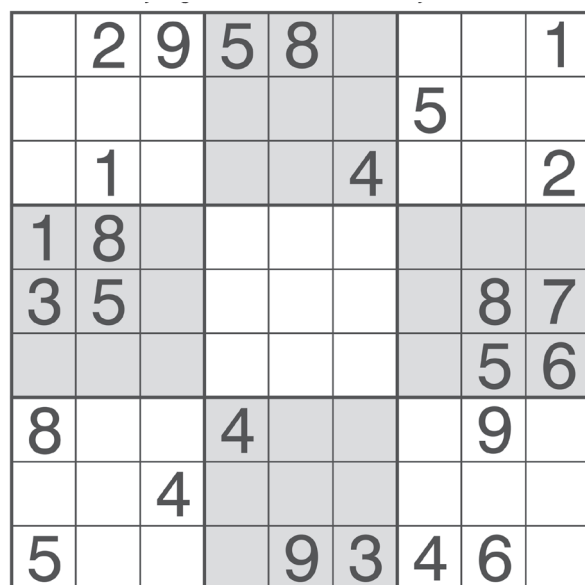

Derrick: "We'll finally see who's No. 1. Oh, wait, let's look down at our jerseys..."

Derrick Rose tries to shake Dwight Howard's hand, and Howard rejects it into the sixth row.

Enter a number between 1 and 9 in the empty squares. The clues are the numbers in the white circles that give the sum of the solution numbers: above the line are across clues; below the line are down clues. Thus, a clue of 3 will produce a solution of 2 and 1, and a 5 will produce 4 and 1, or 2 and 3, but, of course, which squares they go in will depend on the solution of a clue in the other direction. No digit can be repeated in a solution. Answer at redvechicago.com/puzzles. EDITED BY MICHAEL MEPHAM

Make a 2- to 7-letter word from the letters in each row. Add points of each word, using scoring directions at right. Finally, 7-letter words get a 50-point bonus. "Blanks" used as any letter have no point value. All the words are in the Official Scrabble Players Dictionary, 4th Edition. Find the answer at redevechicago.com/puzzles.

OH MY GOSLING

ONE OF OUR FAVORITES, RYAN CERTAINLY HAS GROWN INTO HIS LOOKS

'REMEMBER THE TITANS'
2000

High-school adorable

In a small role, Gosling is kinda-sorta buds with a racist in this high-school football movie. When he starts rocking out to "Ain't No Mountain High Enough" in the locker room, though, the part seems more substantial.

By Dana Moran

REDEYE

This may be one of the first times we've told Steve Carell to step aside. The trailer for "Crazy Stupid Love," starring Carell as a recently dumped dude and a gloriously hot Ryan Gosling as his new uber-player pal, was just released. However, this isn't the first time we've taken notice of the 30-year-old Gosling. RedEye took a look at different stages in this Canadian cutie's past to see what made us fall head over heels.

'THE NOTEBOOK'
2004

Humble hottie

He writes her a letter every day! She's supposed to marry another guy! There's a lot of rain! Seriously, this movie is one nonstop crying jag. But in between sobs, we couldn't help but enjoy a dripping-wet Gosling.

'BLUE VALENTINE'

Young and lovestruck—or young and paunchy

While Gosling's character, Dean, doesn't care much about his own future, we can't deny his passion for his wife/girlfriend, Cindy. This manifests itself in ways both good—a ukulele serenade—and bad—an unsettling scene at a "sex motel." Yep, we said "sex motel."

'LARS AND THE REAL GIRL'

Strangely sweet

And we mean strange. Despite the premise of this movie—a guy forms a relationship with a blow-up doll—we can't help but be moved by his devotion.

'CRAZY STUPID LOVE'
2011

Man on the prowl

"Seriously?! It's like you're Photoshopped!" Co-star Emma Stone puts it beautifully when she sees Gosling's abs in this role as the perfect player.

Tina Fey as Liz Lemon
NBC FILE

No baby for Lemon

Don't expect to see Liz Lemon with a baby bump anytime soon. Even though "30 Rock" star Tina Fey is expecting, the hit NBC show already has wrapped its current season, so her pregnancy won't be written into the storyline or postpone production for next season, according to people.com. Fey revealed that she's five months pregnant with her second child during a taping of "The Oprah Winfrey Show" Wednesday.

Take it off

"Dancing with the Stars" bombshell Karina Smirnoff (left) is stripping down. "The May issue of Playboy is unforgettable with Dancing With the Stars' Karina Smirnoff on the cover & nude inside," Hugh Hefner tweeted.

Trust us

If you haven't seen the film "Trust," you might want to go Saturday. You'll get to meet its director, David Schwimmer (left). The former "Friends" star will take questions after the 1:40 p.m. screening of the film at AMC River East, 322 E. Illinois. Just don't ask him about the sitcom; he prefers to leave it in the past. For Matt Pais' interview with Schwimmer, go to redeyechicago.com.

Crash and burn

For the first time, Bravo is not renewing a series in its "Real Housewives" franchise. The cable network confirmed there won't be another season starring the D.C. cast—best-known for alleged state dinner crasher Michael Salahi (left). Bravo exec Andy Cohen told the Washington Post, "I wish all our D.C. wives the best and hope to work with them again in another capacity." Cat O'Malley, for one, is booked on Bravo's "Watch What Happens Live: Royal Wedding Spectacular" on April 28, Cohen said. New York's Countess LuAnn De Lesseps also will be there, of course.

“Who are the people that vote on American idol? That's just crazy! That Pia girl is dope!”
